1. Acceptance and Precedence

These Master Official Rules (the “Master Rules”) govern participation in Dream Auction™ promotional selection events offered through the Each4Other platform. By submitting a participation request or valid entry, a participant agrees to be bound by these Master Rules, the applicable Lot-Specific Rules, the Each4Other Terms of Use, and all decisions of the Sponsor or Administrator made in accordance with those documents.

If the documents conflict, the following order controls: (1) the applicable Lot-Specific Rules; (2) the applicable jurisdictional schedule to these Master Rules; (3) these Master Rules; (4) the Dream Auction™ Terms of Participation; and (5) the general Each4Other Terms of Use.

2. Sponsor, Administrator, and Lot Providers

Sponsor and Administrator: Each4Other Inc., a Pennsylvania corporation. Official notices and inquiries may be submitted through the Each4Other Help Center or the official contact form made available on the Platform. The Sponsor may perform administrative functions directly or through service providers.

A “Lot Provider” is the business, brand, partner, or other entity identified in the Lot-Specific Rules that provides, funds, or fulfills the applicable item or service. A Lot Provider is not the Sponsor unless the Lot-Specific Rules expressly state otherwise.

The Lot-Specific Rules must identify, as applicable, the Sponsor, Administrator, Lot Provider, Fulfillment Party, and Tax Reporting Party. No third-party random-number source, payment processor, identity-verification provider, shipping carrier, or technology vendor sponsors, endorses, or administers Dream Auction™ merely by providing services to Each4Other Inc.

3. Promotion Structure

Dream Auction™ is a promotional selection system in which eligible participants may obtain one valid entry for a specific lot through an available participation method. Each valid entry is placed into one finalized participant pool for the applicable lot. The selected entry is determined by a documented mapping process using an external random value, subject to eligibility verification and these Rules.

Dream Auction™ is not a wager, bet, or purchase of probability. No participant may buy additional entries or increase selection priority by spending money, using more Coins, completing more activity, or purchasing a VIP membership.

4. Eligibility and Geographic Scope

Unless the Lot-Specific Rules provide a narrower scope, participation is open only to natural persons who:

- are at least eighteen (18) years old at the time of participation;
- are legal residents of an eligible jurisdiction;
- have a valid Each4Other account in good standing;
- satisfy the shipping, pickup, service-area, identity, and other requirements stated for the lot; and
- are not excluded under these Rules or the Lot-Specific Rules.

United States eligibility: legal residents of the fifty (50) United States and the District of Columbia, excluding New York, Florida, and Rhode Island. Legal residents of Puerto Rico are also eligible, subject to Schedule B and the Lot-Specific Rules. All other United States territories and possessions are excluded unless expressly included in the Lot-Specific Rules.

Canada eligibility: legal residents of Canada, including Québec, subject to Schedule C and the Lot-Specific Rules. Québec-facing materials should be made available in French where required by applicable law and launch configuration.

Employees, officers, directors, contractors directly involved in administration, and immediate household members of Each4Other Inc., the applicable Lot Provider, and entities materially involved in selection or fulfillment are not eligible, unless the Lot-Specific Rules expressly and lawfully state otherwise.

5. Promotion Period and Lot Availability

Each lot begins and closes as stated in its Lot-Specific Rules. A lot may close when its disclosed participant capacity is reached, but every lot must also include an outside closing date or another objectively stated termination condition.

The Sponsor may place a lot in “Coming Soon,” “Open,” “Capacity Reached,” “Pending Selection,” “Verification,” “Fulfillment,” “Completed,” “Suspended,” or “Cancelled” status. No entry is accepted after the applicable closing condition or deadline.

6. Participation Methods

A lot may offer one or more of the following methods. The methods available for a specific lot will be disclosed before participation:

- Free Participation Method / Alternative Method of Entry (“AMOE”).
- Activity Method, where an eligible participant completes a clearly disclosed qualifying platform activity.
- Coin Method, where an eligible participant uses the stated number of Each4Other platform credits (“Coins”).

Regardless of method, a participant may receive no more than one valid entry for the same lot. Different methods do not create additional entries, better placement, priority, weighting, or any selection advantage.

VIP membership may provide full Dream Auction™ interface access and in-platform participation tools, but VIP status does not increase selection probability or eliminate the Free Participation Method available for an eligible specific lot.

7. Free Participation Method / AMOE

NO PURCHASE, PAYMENT, COIN USE, ACTIVITY COMPLETION, OR VIP MEMBERSHIP IS NECESSARY TO USE THE FREE PARTICIPATION METHOD.

For each lot offering the Free Participation Method, an eligible participant may access the applicable free participation route, complete the same required confirmation information, and submit the request before the stated deadline or capacity condition.

VIP and non-VIP participants using the Free Participation Method must be processed through materially identical eligibility, identity, duplicate-account, geographic, and fraud checks. After approval, the request enters the same free-participation queue or processing sequence and may produce one valid entry in accordance with the Lot-Specific Rules. Membership status does not provide queue priority or selection priority.

The Sponsor may reject incomplete, late, duplicated, automated, fraudulent, or ineligible requests. The Sponsor may require reasonable corrections or verification before approving a free participation request.

8. One Valid Entry Rule

Each eligible individual may hold only one valid entry per lot, regardless of the number of Each4Other accounts, devices, email addresses, payment methods, participation requests, or methods used.

If multiple requests are associated with the same person, household, device, identity, address, or other risk indicators, the Sponsor may investigate and retain only one valid entry, reject all associated requests, or impose account restrictions where permitted by law and platform policy.

9. Participant Capacity and Finalized Pool

Each lot will disclose a participant capacity or another objective pool-closing condition. The displayed valid-entry count may be delayed or adjusted to account for verification, duplicate removal, cancellations, technical reconciliation, and fraud review.

Before selection, the Administrator will create a finalized pool consisting only of approved valid entries. The finalized pool will be frozen for selection, assigned a deterministic order, and recorded using an auditable snapshot, hash, or equivalent integrity control.

Only entries contained in the finalized pool are eligible for the applicable selection event.

10. Independent Random Selection

The Administrator will obtain an external random value from ANU Quantum Numbers or another external randomness source identified in the Lot-Specific Rules. The external source provides randomness only and does not operate, sponsor, endorse, or administer Dream Auction™.

The Administrator will apply a documented mapping algorithm to the external random value and the size or structure of the finalized pool to identify one selected entry. The mapping method, algorithm version, request timestamp, response record or hash, finalized-pool record, and selected-entry record will be retained for audit purposes.

Administrative and moderation tools may be used to review eligibility, duplicate accounts, fraud indicators, geographic compliance, provider compliance, and technical errors. No administrator, moderator, Lot Provider, or other person may manually choose the potentially selected participant, grant an entry additional weight or priority, alter the deterministic order of the finalized pool, or substitute personal discretion for the disclosed external-randomness and mapping process.

Any correction to an entry record before the external random value is requested must be supported by a documented reason and audit log. After the finalized-pool snapshot and external-randomness request have been created, entries may not be added, removed, reordered, or replaced except to address a documented technical corruption, fraud, or legal invalidity in accordance with these Rules. Any resulting additional selection must use the disclosed Second Chance procedure.

If the external source is unavailable or returns an invalid response, the selection will be paused and retried under a documented retry procedure. The Administrator will not silently substitute an undisclosed local selection method.

Selection identifies a potentially selected participant only. No person is finally confirmed until all eligibility, identity, jurisdictional, tax, and fulfillment conditions are satisfied. For a Canadian resident, a valid entry exists only if the participant completed the entry-stage skill-testing requirement described in Section 12 and Schedule C before the entry was created.

11. Notification and Confirmation

The potentially selected participant will be notified using the contact information associated with the Each4Other account or the applicable confirmation form. Unless a longer period is stated in the Lot-Specific Rules or required by applicable law, the participant has seven (7) calendar days after the first notification is sent to affirmatively accept the item and begin or complete the required confirmation steps. The first notice will state the exact deadline, time zone, required actions, and consequences of non-response or failed verification.

During the seven (7)-calendar-day confirmation period, the Administrator will make three (3) documented notification attempts: (1) the initial selection notice; (2) a reminder notice during the confirmation period; and (3) a final notice before the deadline. Notices may be delivered by email, in-platform notification, SMS, or another contact method enabled by the participant or stated in the Lot-Specific Rules. The Administrator may use more than one channel for the same notice.

The notification period begins when the initial notice is transmitted by the Administrator's system, not when the participant opens or reads it. Delivery logs, timestamps, bounce records, and in-platform records may be used to establish that a notice was sent. Each participant is responsible for maintaining accurate contact information, checking spam or junk folders, and monitoring the Each4Other account during the confirmation period. Failure to receive or review a notice because of inaccurate, outdated, blocked, or inaccessible contact information does not extend the deadline, except where required by law or expressly approved by the Administrator for a documented platform error.

The potentially selected participant may be required to provide or complete:

- legal name, age, and residency confirmation;
- identity verification through an approved provider;
- shipping or pickup information;
- an eligibility declaration, release, or affidavit where lawful;
- tax documentation requested by the identified Tax Reporting Party;
- any other lot-specific confirmation reasonably necessary for lawful fulfillment.

If the potentially selected participant does not affirmatively accept the item within the applicable seven (7)-calendar-day confirmation period after the three documented notification attempts, fails to complete required verification within the stated deadline, cannot be verified, refuses required terms, is ineligible, or engages in attempted fraud or material misrepresentation, the participant will be disqualified and will have no further right to the item. Material misrepresentation includes, without limitation, false or concealed information concerning age, legal name, identity, residence, state, province or territory, address, geographic eligibility, account ownership, duplicate accounts, licensing, pickup eligibility, or any other fact material to lawful participation or fulfillment. A person later verified as a Canadian resident who did not validly complete the Canadian entry-stage skill test before the entry was created is ineligible and will be disqualified. The Administrator will then conduct a Second Chance selection from the same Finalized Pool, excluding the disqualified or declining entry and any other known ineligible entries, using the same disclosed external-randomness and documented-mapping process unless applicable law or the Lot-Specific Rules require another lawful procedure.

A Second Chance selection does not create a new participation period and does not add new entries to the finalized pool. The newly identified potentially selected participant is subject to the same eligibility, confirmation, verification, tax, and fulfillment requirements, including the applicable seven (7)-calendar-day acceptance period.

12. Canada Skill-Testing Requirement

The Canadian skill-testing requirement is administered before a participation request becomes a valid entry. It applies only to individuals whose stated residence is in Canada.

A Canadian resident may open and review the full lot page, including the item description, approximate retail value, eligibility conditions, geographic restrictions, participation methods, fulfillment terms, and applicable Lot-Specific Rules. When the user selects any available participation method for that lot, the platform will present the skill-testing notice before creating or approving an entry.

Before the question is shown, the user must be informed that a correct answer is required to participate, that up to three (3) attempts are available for that lot, and that each attempt is subject to the disclosed time limit. The timer begins only after the user selects “Start” and the Backend delivers the question.

The question must require multiple elementary arithmetic operations and must be answered without mechanical, electronic, automated, or personal assistance. The platform may use addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division that produces a whole-number result. The question should not require specialized knowledge, use ambiguous wording, or produce a negative final answer.

If the user answers correctly within the time limit, the skill-test result is recorded and the selected participation method continues through its normal eligibility, duplicate, validation, and approval checks. Only after those checks are satisfied may one valid entry be created and added to the applicable lot pool.

If an answer is incorrect, incomplete, late, assisted, automated, or otherwise invalid, no entry is created for that attempt and the user is not added to the lot pool. An expired timer counts as an unsuccessful attempt. After three unsuccessful or expired attempts for the same lot, no further attempt is available unless the Administrator restores an attempt to correct a documented platform error or another exceptional circumstance. Any restoration must be recorded in the audit log.

Skill-test records, including the question identifier, attempt number, delivery timestamp, timer record, submitted answer, result, and any administrative restoration, may be retained as part of the compliance and audit file. Passing the skill test does not waive any other eligibility, identity, residency, duplicate-account, or lot-specific requirement.

13. Item Description and Approximate Retail Value

The Lot-Specific Rules will identify the item or service, quantity, approximate retail value (“ARV”), currency, material restrictions, geographic allocation, and any known fact that materially affects participation or selection. Images are illustrative unless expressly stated otherwise.

ARV may differ from actual market price at the time of fulfillment. No difference between stated ARV and actual value will be paid. No cash alternative is available unless required by law or expressly stated in the Lot-Specific Rules.

If an advertised item becomes unavailable for reasons beyond reasonable control, the Sponsor or Lot Provider may provide a substantially comparable substitute of equal or greater value where lawful and disclosed, or cancel the lot and take another lawful remedial action.

14. Fulfillment, Delivery, and Pickup

The Lot Provider and the Fulfillment Party identified in the Lot-Specific Rules are responsible for making the item available and for all item-specific obligations, including lawful ownership or authority to provide the item, accuracy of the item description, condition and safety, required licenses or approvals, packaging, shipment, delivery, pickup, installation, title or ownership transfer, service performance, warranties, recalls, and compliance with all laws and rules governing receipt or transfer of the item. Physical shipments should be created and tracked through the platform’s approved shipping workflow, including Shippo where applicable.

Before publication, the Lot Provider must represent that it has the legal authority and practical ability to provide the item or service, that the item is reserved or otherwise reasonably available for fulfillment, that the description and approximate retail value are supportable, and that all required licenses, permissions, safety information, geographic limitations, and transfer conditions have been disclosed. Each4Other Inc. may request supporting documents and may refuse, suspend, or remove a lot if the information is incomplete, inaccurate, or cannot be verified.

The Lot-Specific Rules must state the applicable shipment, pickup, title-transfer, installation, or service-commencement timetable. For a service provided over time, the Lot-Specific Rules must also disclose the service term, material performance schedule, participant obligations, and any conditions that could pause or terminate performance. Internal payment arrangements between Each4Other Inc. and the Lot Provider do not reduce the participant’s disclosed right to receive the item or service.

To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, Each4Other Inc. is not responsible for a Lot Provider’s or Fulfillment Party’s failure to deliver, perform, transfer, repair, replace, or otherwise fulfill the item. This limitation does not exclude liability that cannot legally be waived, including liability arising from Each4Other Inc.’s own fraud, willful misconduct, gross negligence, misleading representations, breach of a non-waivable statutory duty, or violation of mandatory consumer-protection law.

Unless the Lot-Specific Rules expressly identify Each4Other Inc. as the Lot Provider or Fulfillment Party, Each4Other Inc. acts as the platform Sponsor and Administrator only and is not the seller, manufacturer, carrier, installer, service provider, or owner of the item. Item-quality, non-delivery, delayed-delivery, damage, warranty, service-performance, title-transfer, and similar fulfillment claims must be directed first to the responsible Lot Provider or Fulfillment Party.

The Lot Provider and Fulfillment Party are solely responsible for maintaining the item's availability, satisfying applicable licensing and product or service requirements, arranging lawful transfer, meeting disclosed delivery or pickup obligations, and responding to fulfillment complaints. Each4Other Inc. may facilitate communications, tracking, records, or enforcement against the provider, but does not assume the provider's fulfillment obligations merely by operating the platform or administering the selection.

A confirmed selected participant will not be required to pay a purchase price, participation fee, shipping fee, handling fee, or undisclosed provider charge to receive the item. The participant remains responsible for personal income or other taxes, registration charges, licensing costs, insurance, travel, maintenance, property-transfer costs, or similar obligations only to the extent clearly disclosed in the Lot-Specific Rules or imposed directly by law. No provider may condition delivery on an undisclosed payment.

The confirmed selected participant must provide a deliverable address or satisfy pickup/service-area requirements. The participant is responsible for accurate information, lawful receipt, timely pickup, and compliance with age, licensing, travel, property-transfer, or other item-specific requirements.

The Lot-Specific Rules will state who bears ordinary shipping, taxes, registration, transfer, installation, travel, or incidental expenses. Each4Other Inc. will not impose an undisclosed payment as a condition of confirmation.

If delivery fails because of inaccurate information, refusal, prohibited destination, missed pickup, or participant noncooperation, the Sponsor may treat the item as unclaimed and conduct an additional selection, subject to applicable law.

15. Taxes and Tax Reporting

A confirmed selected participant is responsible for the participant's own federal, state, provincial, territorial, Puerto Rico, local, or other taxes, duties, reporting obligations, and professional advice arising from receipt, ownership, registration, use, or disposition of the item, except to the extent the Lot-Specific Rules expressly state that a specified amount will be paid or covered.

Unless the applicable Lot-Specific Rules expressly designate another entity, the company that created or supplied the lot (the Lot Provider) is the Tax Reporting Party for that lot. The Lot Provider is solely responsible, to the maximum extent permitted by law, for determining the item's reportable fair market value, identifying all applicable federal, state, provincial, territorial, Puerto Rico, local, and cross-border reporting or withholding rules, monitoring any per-recipient or aggregate reporting thresholds, collecting required taxpayer information, applying required withholding, and timely preparing, furnishing, and filing all required tax forms, information returns, statements, and related reports.

Each4Other Inc. may provide platform functionality that requests, transmits, validates, or stores tax documentation, taxpayer certifications, or related records. That functionality is provided as administrative technology only. It does not make Each4Other Inc. the payer, transferor, withholding agent, employer, tax advisor, or Tax Reporting Party, and it does not transfer the Lot Provider's legal reporting duties to Each4Other Inc., except where applicable law imposes a non-waivable obligation directly on Each4Other Inc. or the Lot-Specific Rules expressly provide otherwise.

The Lot Provider must independently track thresholds and filing requirements for every jurisdiction in which a selected participant resides or in which the item is sourced, transferred, delivered, registered, or used. Reporting thresholds may change by tax year and jurisdiction. References in platform materials to amounts such as $600 or $2,000 are examples only and are not fixed platform rules or tax advice. The Lot Provider must apply the threshold and form requirements legally in effect for the relevant transaction and tax year.

The Lot Provider must not rely solely on Stripe, another payment processor, an identity-verification provider, Shippo, Each4Other Inc., or any automated platform setting to determine whether a tax form or filing is required. The Lot Provider remains responsible for reviewing cumulative value where applicable, including multiple items or other reportable transfers to the same recipient during a calendar year.

The Lot Provider must provide Each4Other Inc., upon reasonable request, evidence of required taxpayer-document collection, withholding, filing, or delivery of information returns. Each4Other Inc. may delay confirmation, suspend fulfillment, remove a lot, restrict the Lot Provider's account, or require corrective action when required tax information has not been collected or when the Lot Provider cannot demonstrate a reasonable compliance process.

To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, the Lot Provider will defend, indemnify, and hold harmless Each4Other Inc. and its officers, directors, employees, and agents from claims, assessments, penalties, interest, costs, or liabilities arising from the Lot Provider's failure to determine, collect, withhold, report, file, or furnish taxes or tax information required in connection with the lot. This provision does not limit liability that applicable law does not permit the parties to waive or transfer.

Canadian residents should consult their own advisors regarding Canadian tax treatment, including circumstances in which an item may be treated differently because of employment, business, property, or achievement-related activity. United States and Puerto Rico residents should consult their own advisors regarding federal, Puerto Rico, state, and local tax consequences.

16. Publicity and Content Rights

Except where prohibited, a confirmed selected participant may be asked to consent to the use of their name, city, state/province, likeness, and factual selection information for reasonable promotional and compliance purposes without additional compensation. Any such use remains subject to applicable privacy law and the participant's specific consent where required.

Participation does not transfer ownership of a participant's unrelated content. Any separate content, testimonial, review, or publicity assignment must be governed by a separate written consent or applicable platform terms.

17. Disqualification and Prohibited Conduct

The Sponsor may disqualify a participant or invalidate a request or entry for:

- multiple or duplicate entries;
- bots, scripts, automation, false identities, impersonation, or account sharing;
- tampering with queues, pool formation, selection, verification, or fulfillment;
- false, misleading, or inconsistent information;
- harassment, threats, abusive conduct, or interference with other participants;
- chargeback or payment abuse connected to a method used, without affecting the right to use a lawful free method;
- violation of the Terms of Use, these Rules, or applicable law; or
- conduct that compromises fairness, security, integrity, or lawful administration.

Disqualification decisions will be documented. Where practical and legally appropriate, the affected user may receive notice and an opportunity to appeal under the platform's enforcement policy.

Administrative sanctions, rewards, badges, account labels, increased platform limits, or internal queue-management tools may not create an additional valid entry, selection weighting, preferential placement in a finalized pool, or any other selection advantage. Human review may determine whether an entry is valid, but it may not determine which valid entry is selected.

All material administrative actions affecting a lot, entry, pool, notification, confirmation, disqualification, Second Chance selection, or fulfillment status must be recorded in an audit log identifying the actor, timestamp, reason, prior status, and resulting status.

18. Technical Failures, Suspension, and Changes

The Sponsor may suspend, extend, modify, or cancel a lot if fraud, security incidents, platform outages, provider failure, legal changes, force majeure, external API failure, or another event materially impairs lawful or fair administration.

Any change will be limited to what is reasonably necessary and communicated through the platform or the Lot-Specific Rules. The Sponsor will not retroactively alter a finalized pool or selection outcome except to correct documented error, fraud, or legal invalidity.

If a lot is cancelled before selection, Coin or paid platform-credit transactions specifically associated with that lot will be restored or handled under the applicable Coins Policy. No restoration is necessary for the Free Participation Method.

19. Privacy and Data Use

Participation information will be processed under the Each4Other Privacy Policy and the applicable Lot-Specific Rules. Data may be used for account administration, eligibility, fraud prevention, queue processing, pool formation, selection, notification, identity verification, shipping, tax reporting, customer support, audits, and legal compliance.

Data may be disclosed to the Lot Provider, Fulfillment Party, Tax Reporting Party, identity-verification provider, payment processor, shipping provider, professional advisors, regulators, or law-enforcement authorities only as reasonably necessary and permitted by law.

Sensitive identity or tax information should be collected through approved providers where practicable. Each4Other Inc. should not publicly display a participant's legal name, address, tax identifier, or verification documents.

20. Releases and Limitations

To the maximum extent permitted by law, participants release and hold harmless Each4Other Inc. from claims arising solely from the acts or omissions of an independent Lot Provider, Fulfillment Party, carrier, manufacturer, installer, or service provider in connection with item availability, condition, shipment, delivery, pickup, transfer, installation, warranty, or performance. Participants also release the applicable Lot Provider and Fulfillment Party to the extent lawfully stated in the Lot-Specific Rules or a separate acceptance document. No release applies to liability that cannot legally be waived, including Each4Other Inc.'s own fraud, willful misconduct, gross negligence, misleading representations, breach of a non-waivable statutory duty, or violation of mandatory consumer-protection law.

No provision limits rights available under applicable Canadian provincial consumer-protection law or other mandatory law. Item warranties, product-liability obligations, and service-performance obligations remain with the party legally responsible for them.

21. Disputes and Governing Law

Except where prohibited or where mandatory local law applies, these Master Rules are governed by the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and applicable United States federal law, without regard to conflict-of-law principles.

For United States participants, the dispute-resolution provisions in the Each4Other Terms of Use apply to the extent enforceable. For Canadian participants, nothing in these Rules removes non-waivable rights or jurisdiction available under applicable federal, provincial, or territorial law.

22. Results and Records

A results request process will be stated on the platform or in the Lot-Specific Rules. The Sponsor may publish the confirmed selected participant's first name or initials, city, and state/province, subject to consent and applicable law.

The Administrator will retain records reasonably necessary to demonstrate pool formation, random-value retrieval, mapping, notification, verification, additional selection, and fulfillment for the retention period stated in the Privacy Policy or required by law.

23. Intellectual Property and Patent-Pending Notice

Dream Auction™ and related names, logos, designs, text, software, workflows, and documentation are owned by or licensed to Each4Other Inc. No participation right grants a license to copy, reverse engineer, reproduce, or commercially exploit those materials.

The Dream Auction™ process and certain related platform methods are included in a provisional patent application filed by or on behalf of Each4Other Inc. The terms "Patent Pending" and "Patent Applied For" provide public notice that an application has been filed; they do not mean that a patent has been granted or that patent protection is currently enforceable.

Schedule A — United States

This Schedule applies to participants residing in the fifty (50) United States and the District of Columbia.

Eligible territory: the fifty (50) United States and the District of Columbia, excluding New York, Florida, and Rhode Island. Puerto Rico is governed separately by Schedule B. All other United States territories and possessions are excluded unless expressly included in the Lot-Specific Rules.

No purchase necessary. A purchase or payment may not be required to participate or be selected, and a purchase or payment may not increase the possibility of selection.

The Free Participation Method must be displayed clearly and must not be materially more burdensome than necessary for eligibility, duplicate prevention, fraud prevention, and lawful administration.

The Lot-Specific Rules must identify any state-specific restrictions, age limits above eighteen, licensing requirements, tax obligations, pickup requirements, registration requirements, bonding requirements, or additional exclusions.

Schedule B — Puerto Rico

This Schedule applies to participants who are legal residents of Puerto Rico, unless the Lot-Specific Rules expressly exclude Puerto Rico because of lawful shipping, service-area, licensing, or other operational restrictions.

No purchase necessary. A purchase, payment, Coin use, Activity Method, or VIP membership is not required to participate and will not increase the possibility of selection.

The Official Rules, short-form disclosures, participation instructions, and material lot information must be made available in Spanish for Puerto Rico participants to the extent required by applicable Puerto Rico law. If an English and Spanish version conflict, the controlling version will be identified in the applicable Lot-Specific Rules, subject to mandatory law.

Each Puerto Rico-facing lot must clearly disclose the item description, approximate retail value, participation period, eligibility restrictions, participation methods, participant capacity or closing condition, selection process, confirmation deadline, fulfillment terms, and any material costs or restrictions.

A Puerto Rico participant may be required to provide proof of legal residence, age, identity, delivery address, and compliance with any lot-specific pickup, licensing, or service-area requirement. False or concealed residency information is grounds for disqualification and Second Chance selection.

Any modification, suspension, or cancellation of a lot offered in Puerto Rico will be handled in accordance with applicable Puerto Rico law and any required regulatory procedure. Nothing in these Rules waives non-waivable rights available under Puerto Rico consumer-protection law.

Schedule C — Canada

This Schedule applies to participants residing in Canada, including Québec, unless a specific lot excludes a province or territory for lawful operational reasons.

The short-form disclosures and Lot-Specific Rules must prominently disclose the number and approximate value of available items, any regional allocation, the skill-testing requirement, whether purchase is necessary, and any known fact that materially affects the chance or process of selection.

Before any participation request by a Canadian resident becomes a valid entry, the resident must correctly answer a time-limited mathematical skill-testing question without mechanical, electronic, automated, or personal assistance. The requirement applies when the user selects any participation method after reviewing the lot information. Up to three (3) attempts are available for that lot, subject to the disclosed time limit and the entry-stage procedures in Section 12. No valid entry is created unless the question is answered correctly and the remaining validation checks are satisfied.

An incorrect or expired attempt does not place the participant in the pool. After three unsuccessful or expired attempts, participation in that lot is unavailable unless an attempt is restored by the Administrator for a documented platform error or another exceptional circumstance, with the restoration recorded in the audit log.

For Québec, French-language contest materials, consumer disclosures, and contractual presentation will be provided to the extent required by applicable Québec law and the applicable Lot-Specific Rules.

The Sponsor may require proof of Canadian residency and province or territory. Currency should be stated in Canadian dollars or include a clear Canadian-dollar equivalent where appropriate for Canadian-facing disclosures.

Nothing in these Rules excludes non-waivable rights under Canadian federal, provincial, or territorial law.

24. Lot-Specific Rules

Each lot is governed by these Master Official Rules and by the Lot-Specific Rules displayed on the applicable lot page. The Lot-Specific Rules will identify the Lot Provider, Fulfillment Party, Tax Reporting Party, eligible jurisdictions, participation period, participant capacity or closing condition, approximate retail value, participation methods, fulfillment terms, shipment/pickup/service timetable, applicable costs, special restrictions, confirmation deadline,

Second Chance procedure, and any other material conditions. Lot-Specific Rules form part of these Master Official Rules.

Appendix 1 — Defined Terms

Administrator: Each4Other Inc. or a disclosed service provider administering a lot on its behalf.

AMOE: The no-purchase Free Participation Method for a specific lot.

Coins: Internal Each4Other platform credits with no cash value, governed by the Coins Policy.

Finalized Pool: The frozen, verified set of valid entries used for selection.

Fulfillment Party: The entity responsible for delivery, pickup, or service performance.

Lot: A specific Dream Auction™ promotional selection event associated with an item or service.

Lot Provider: The business or partner providing, funding, or fulfilling the item.

Lot-Specific Rules: The rules and disclosures applicable to one particular lot.

Participant Capacity: The maximum number of valid entries or other disclosed pool-closing condition.

Potentially Selected Participant: The person associated with the entry identified by the selection process before confirmation.

Sponsor: Each4Other Inc., unless the Lot-Specific Rules expressly identify another lawful sponsor.

Tax Reporting Party: The entity responsible for required tax valuation, threshold monitoring, taxpayer-information collection, withholding, and reporting. Unless the Lot-Specific Rules expressly designate another entity, the Lot Provider is the Tax Reporting Party.

Valid Entry: One approved entry that satisfies the applicable participation method and is included in the Finalized Pool.

VIP: A paid Each4Other membership that may provide interface and platform benefits but no selection advantage.
